TERM OF REFERENCE (TOR)
THE 4th AL INSYIRAH INTERNATIONAL SCIENTIFIC CONFERENCE ON HEALTH
(4th AISCH)
AND THE 1st CONFERENCE OF THE FACULTY OF HEALTH OF
AL INSYIRAH INSTITUTE OF HEALTH AND TECNOLOGY

A. BACKGROUND

As time goes by, science has developed very rapidly. Where the development of science also spurs the development of several research studies. Increasingly advanced life demands acceleration in various aspects including knowledge. Academics carry out various research to gain knowledge in their designated areas of expertise. The quality and quantity of research carried out by academics will surely play a very big role in the development of science. Research is also important in higher education, where it is included in one of the three Dharmas of higher education.

Al Insyirah Institute of Health and Technology is a developing educational institution in Riau Province, which plays a very important role in the developing human resources. In developing human resources, the carried-out development does not only focus on teaching but also encourages the ability to conduct research in written form so that it can be published in various levels: national, regional, and international, then it will positively contribute to solve the problems and make a better welfare of the nation towards the better ranking.

The Al Insyirah Institute of Health and Technology consists of 2 faculties, namely the Faculty of Health and the Faculty of Technology. The Faculty of Technology organizes three study programs namely the Electromedic Engineering Technology Study Program, the Environmental Health Study Program, and the Medical Informatics Study Program.

The Faculty of Health always strives to improve the abilities of lectures and students in terms of research and community service which cannot be seperated from the vision of the Faculty of Health, namely become a Faculty of Health that is superior, professional, and has character in producing health resources through a science group approach at the national and global levels.

One of the efforts made is to improve and deepen scientific studies through carried out research and present the results of it in the form of publications in both journals and conferences. The International Conference is an effort to promote health faculties, especially the Al Insyirah Institute of Health and Technology.

Complementary therapy is a strategy to increase the ability of health workers to improve health status, which in the field of health science plays a role in treating various diseases both with traditional techniques and as an accompaniment to conventional medical therapy.

Research has proven that complementary therapies can be a solution to reduce discomfort and even cure disease. This therapy is safer and has lower risks compared to modern drugs with chemicals. In Indonesia, these complementary services have developed which are interacted with in health facilities.

The Faculty of Health of the Al Insyirah Institute of Health and Technology is required to have Human Resources (HR) with more abilities than people in general as their capacity to interact more intensely with science. Therefore it should be able to actualize the required quantity and quality of research and scientific publications in accordance with the lecturer ratio each semester.

For this reason, it is necessary to increase scientific knowledge by publishing the results of each lecturer's scientific work through international scientific conferences. In this case, the Faculty of Health of the Al Insyirah Institute of Health and Technology has collaborated with foreign lecturers who are collaborative partners to organize international conferences for teaching staff, lecturers and researchers throughout Indonesia in general and the Riau Province region in particular.

B. PURPOSE OF THE CONFERENCE

1. To develop the insight and to improve the competence of lecturers and students in the health sector, especially to improve foreign language skills.
